COMMODITY BUZZ

- Crude settled more than 1% higher on Friday, as oil prices rebounded after a sell-off in the prior session while the number of U.S. oil rigs rose for the seventh straight week. On the New York Mercantile Exchange crude futures for May delivery gained $0.73 to settle at $53.33 a barrel, while on London's Intercontinental Exchange, Brent climbed 78 cents to settle at $55.86 a barrel. Dollar-dominated crude benefited from a slump in the dollar, which tanked more than 0.5%, following comments from Fed Chair Janet Yellen, as she signalled that a rate hike in March would be "appropriate", as long as inflation and employment data continued to show robust growth.
- Gold prices traded lower on Friday, despite a dip in the dollar, as investors' expectations of a March interest rate hike soared. Gold for April delivery on the Comex division of the New York Mercantile Exchange shed $5.25 or 0.45%, to trade at $1,227.65 a troy ounce by 12:55 ET. Gold is on course to record its biggest weekly loss in nearly four months. Top-tier U.S. economic data had little impact on the yellow-metal as investors focused on whether the Federal Reserve will increase interest rates at its next meeting on March 15. Services PMI missed expectations while the ISM non-manufacturing index revealed a 57.6 reading for February.

SPECIAL NEWS

- China has no plans to implement a nationwide property tax this year, the spokeswoman for China's parliament said on Saturday, despite mounting expectations that such measures would soon be introduced to restrain surging property prices. For years, China has mulled an annual property tax, which could deter speculation in real estate, though little progress has been made due to resistance from stakeholders, such as local governments who rely heavily on land sales for revenue. "The implications of these laws are broad and involve multi-faceted interests, so there is much discussion surrounding this issue," parliament spokeswoman Fu Ying told reporters in Beijing. "To my understanding, there are no arrangements to bring property tax draft laws before the standing committee for deliberation this year."
- The U.S. International Trade Commission said on Friday it had made a final finding that the U.S. industry was being harmed by the dumping and subsidization of imports of carbon and alloy steel cut-to-length plate from China. The finding allows for the final imposition of duties by the U.S. Commerce Department. The investigation into the imports was prompted by a petition from Nucor Corp (NYSE:NUE) and U.S. subsidiaries of ArcelorMittal SA and SSAB AB. China's Ministry of Commerce, however, said issues in the U.S. steel industry were not related to Chinese imports, pointing to obsolete equipment and subsequent low yields as the reason for decreased profits.
